It's almost time for Georgetown's Coldest Night of the Year — a major fundraiser for the local food bank. Here are five things you need to know about this family-friendly walk for a good cause:

1. The Feb. 22 event starts at the Hillview Active Living Centre, 318 Guelph St.; registration opens at 4 p.m. and the walk kicks off at 5:15 p.m.

2. The goal is to raise $25,000 for the Georgetown Bread Basket, which provides food and other assistance to about 180 local families in need, many of which include children.

3. Participants have the option of walking two, five or 10 kilometres to raise money for the local cause. Children are welcome to participate as well.

4. Local residents who are unable to do the walk can also fill a variety of volunteer positions during the event. Sign up at cnoy.org/volunteer.

5. You can register online to walk and fundraise up until the event at cnoy.org/register. Further details on the Georgetown Coldest Night of the Year can be found at cnoy.org/location/georgetown.
