Q: What is a Surveyor's Real Property Report and what does it show?

A: A Surveyor's Real Property Report (SRPR) is a legal document, in the form of a plan, which shows the location of all visible public and private improvements relative to your property boundaries. Typically a SRPR is prepared for a real estate transaction or a mortgage but they can be prepared for any reason. Homeowners wishing to locate a new fence along the boundary is a popular request.

The SRPR shows the legal description of the property, address, and dimensions. All buildings and permanent structures are shown, including structures on adjacent properties that are close to the limit. Adjacent roads, right of ways, and easements are also shown.

As a licensed Ontario Land Surveyor I'm available to discuss the need for a SRPR for your property or any questions you may have regarding changes to your property.

Q: Why should I choose Dr. Elayne Tanner as my counselling professional?

A: Here are the top ten reasons to pick Dr. Elayne Tanner:

10. I provide counselling to all; marriage, family, children, teens and adults. One stop shopping for your counselling needs.
9. I have a governing professional college that holds me to high ethical and professional standards as appropriate to my background and education.
8. I am a published author in matters such as professional ethics. Confidentiality is paramount. No one will know that you see me unless you want them to know—we will not be seen outside having counselling sessions.
7. I am smart! Along with all my education and training, I am a University professor and teach graduate studies including counselling techniques and modalities for future counsellors. I know how to provide the appropriate evidence-based approach to help you solve your problems and meet your needs. This includes CBT, EMDR, hypnosis, childhood trauma including sexual abuse/ family of origin, addictions, issues related to sexuality and gender and many other topics and approaches.
6. I have a great deal of experience—When they need help and guidance, I'm where your doctors go. I'm where your teachers go. I'm where your first responders go. I am highly respected for my skills.
5. My office is in a private, relaxing setting. No one sees you walking into the mental health clinic. The 60-acre rural locale is calming and beautiful. Sit in front of the real wood fire and see how much better you feel right away.
4. I am highly educated. I have my PhD along with all commensurate education that precedes that including 3 (Bachelor of Arts; Bachelor of Social Work; Master of Social Work) other university degrees and many certificates and diplomas in graduate studies. All my degrees are recognized by Canadian standards and have been earned, and not bought on line.
3. Because of my professional background and my education, I am covered by all benefits that provide counselling—I do not contract out to lesser skilled individuals and sign off on their work. You will benefit from my skills directly.
2. No matter what your issue, if you want to make changes, your life will improve for the better with me by your side.
1. I actually care. This is not just a business to me—it is my passion. I was the first professional counsellor in the area. I did not come and then leave and move on to something else. People return to me many years later and know that I will still be there for them. If you want the best, give me a call or send me an email. I am Dr. Elayne Tanner, Elayne@DrElayneTanner.com.
