

RATE REDUCTION MUCH WELCOMED

Council voted in favour of offering a reduction "in order to make the restart season financially viable."

Even with fewer members in the pool at a time, more safety precautions will be enforced.

"When they come into the pool area they have to be masked and use hand sanitizer," Thompson said.

"They can take their masks off in the pool, but any time they're out of the pool, the masks go back on. That's just the age we're in."

With a four-hour time slot on Sunday and Wednesday, the club will also need to make time for mandatory cleaning time between sessions.

"There's still a rental fee for those 15 minutes that we're not really in the pool," Thompson said.

Currently, the season is delayed by two weeks to get protocols in place, as well as, Thompson said, to allow members to get used to the new protocols at schools.

"We didn't know what school was going to look like and we didn't want to stress the kids out," she said.

The reduction, Thompson said, would alleviate some of the financial pressure on the club during this season.

"The Town of Halton Hills has our backs," she said. "They want to see us succeed."

Jessica Clevely, a member of the club for the past four years, said she was eager to get back in the pool.

"It's been an adjustment," she said.

Last year, the season ended early due to the pandemic, but the social aspect of the club carried on through Zoom calls.

The rental fee reduction will affect several Halton Hills groups including the Synchronized Swimming Club, Special Olympics, Blue Fins, and the Acton Ducks.

STORY BEHIND THE STORY: After learning about how several user groups would be impacted by new safety protocols, we wanted to find out the impact on user groups who rely on limited facilities like swimming pools. We discovered that without financial relief, aquatic user groups would face difficulty in returning for the coming season.

Distributors such as Halton Hills Hydro typically apply for a full review of their rates every five years.
