POLICE BOARD HOLDING SPECIAL MEETING OVER CHIEF'S FLORIDA TRIP

They have already met for over 15 hours and say they need more time.

The Halton Police Board, which governs Halton Regional Police, met Friday and Saturday (Jan. 15-16) for more than 15 hours "in response to concerns regarding Chief (Steve) Tanner's recent travel to the U.S." in meetings that were "closed to the public, as permitted under the Police Services Act."

The Board will continue to examine this issue this week at a Special Board meeting at 9:30 a.m. today (Jan. 21), Oakville councillor and acting Police Board Chair Jeff Knoll said in a statement issued Saturday night.

Knoll took over as acting chair last week when former chair, Oakville Mayor Rob Burton, resigned over approving Chief Stephen Tanner's trip to Florida.

"I regret sincerely that I focussed at the time on the ways the chief's trip qualified as essential travel," Burton said in a statement.

"I should have recommended against it because it could generate public concern about me not setting a higher example than the rules and guidelines actually called for."

News of Tanner's personal businesses trip came to light earlier this month after one of his officers suddenly died from a medical episode while on duty.

The trip sparked widespread criticism and frustration from a number of members of the force, as well as local officials.

Tanner said he feels deep regret for traveling to Florida in December for personal business matters despite the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic.

"I sincerely apologize for my decision to travel out of the country," Tanner said in a prepared release.

Halton's top cop has returned to Canada and said he is quarantining.
