Get Your Car Road Ready for Spring.

When it comes to driving, the change of season can have an impact on the wear and tear of your car. Winter road usage may have been reduced this past season, but it's still important to keep up to date on your maintenance when planning for life after winter – and after lockdown.

Preparing for spring driving conditions can prolong your vehicle's lifespan, save you money, and keep you (as well as others) safe on the road.

With more sunshine and showers in the forecast, our experts share tips on how to get ready to hit the road this spring.

WINTER TIRES

When the temperature is consistently above 7 degrees, it's safe to change your tires from winter tires to all season.

FULL INSPECTION

Spring is the perfect time to bring your car in for a full inspection to identify emerging issues before they become major problems.

CHECK YOUR CHARGE

Cold temperatures can have a negative impact on your battery, so the change of season is a good time to have it tested.

LIGHT EM' UP

Clean all exterior and interior lights as debris and grime can get baked on. If your vehicle's lighting is defective or hazy, other drivers may not understand when you intend to stop or turn.
