Halton residents aged 75 and over (born in or before 1941) and Indigenous adults aged 55 and over (born in or before 1966) can now book their COVID-19 vaccines through the region's website at halton.ca/COVID-vaccines or by calling 311.

The appointment is contingent on the availability of vaccine supply.

Dr. Hamidah Meghani, Halton's Medical Officer of Health, said in the media release that as the vaccination program ramps up, "I want to remind residents that the COVID-19 virus and the transmission of the variants is still very concerning.

"Vaccines are just one important tool to help stop the spread of the virus and we must remain vigilant -
