The Town of Halton Hills is looking to support individuals, organizations, and community groups actively taking steps to reduce their carbon footprints through mitigation and adaptation measures.

Applicants are eligible for $2,000 from a funding budget of $15,000 available in 2021 from the Town's Climate Change Investment Fund.

"This funding demonstrates our commitment to addressing climate change," Mayor Rick Bonnette said. "All the climate change actions we take now to reduce our carbon footprint will make a difference today and tomorrow."

The funding stems from a Climate Change Emergency Declaration made by Halton Hills council in 2019. The declaration set a target to become a carbon neutral community by 2030.

Applicants are encouraged to apply for the CCIF funding to support actions which align with the town's community climate change initiatives that focus on any of the following areas:

- Air quality
- Energy conservation/efficiency
- Environmental education
- Water conservation
- Waste reduction
- Green space enhancement
- Preserving natural assets
- Biodiversity
- Ecosystem (tree plantings, community gardens)

"Let's work together to make a positive impact in our community for the health of the environment," Bonnette said.

Applications are due by Aug. 3 and can be submitted any time in advance of the deadline. The application and guidelines are available at haltonhills.ca/climatechange.

Landmark delivery after seven months in business

Milestones in business often come after years of service, but Metroland Parcel Services has proven it is a cut above.

Recently the business celebrated its 500,000th parcel delivered, a landmark number that the company expects to double by the end of the summer season.

In November 2020, Metroland kicked off its game-changing parcel delivery service in Ontario, utilizing its historic infrastructure and trusted expertise to significantly lower the cost of quality delivery.

Since that time, Metroland Parcel Services has paired with more than 40 retailers, including lucky number 500,000: Henry's Camera.
