5 THINGS TO KNOW ABOUT PREGNANCY AND INFANT LOSS NIGHT OF REMEMBRANCE

MELANIE HENNESSEY
 mhennessey@metroland.com

On Oct. 15 each year, parents around the world who've been devastated by the loss of a pregnancy or baby take time to reflect and grieve. This week, local families are being invited to gather for the first Halton Hills Pregnancy and Infant Loss Night of Remembrance.

HERE'S EVERYTHING YOU NEED TO KNOW:

1. The event will take place on Oct. 15 at Cedarvale Park in Georgetown, with registration beginning at 6:30, followed by a candle lighting and speakers at 7 p.m.
2. The evening will include families sharing their stories, information for support services and acts of remembrance to participate in.

3. The initiative has been organized by the Halton Hills Pregnancy and Infant Loss Group, which plans to make the event annual. Further details about the group will be available at the event and can also be found at facebook.com/groups/256761829273968/.

4. "Whether you're new or years into your journey of love and loss, or want to show your support for someone who is, everyone is welcome," says the group's event page. "Come and meet other families going through a similar heart-breaking loss, or quietly reflect on your own, and just know you're not alone."

5. Free tickets must be reserved at https://thestar-qr.com/3Dqvg2m, which also secure a candle for you or your group on the night of the event. Face masks are encouraged when social distancing can't be maintained.
