

Tagging onto #ShopTheHills

The #ShopTheHills campaign is being promoted as a chance for local businesses to let the community know why they should shop locally by promoting their products and services on social media.

Halton Hills Chamber of Commerce is encouraging businesses to showcase a product or service that will be promoted by the Chamber and its partners through #ShopTheHills. The Chamber is inviting business owners to take a campaign focused selfie at its office to be used on social media. #ShopLocal bags are also available for businesses. To keep everyone safe, the Chamber asks that you call ahead (905-877-7119) to book a time between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. or email mfrazer@haltonhillschamber.on.ca.

The Chamber suggests that business owners create their own social media post/video at their place of business that could feature their logo and some products.

"Don't forget to tag us in your picture or video so we can post in on our social media sites and website," states the local Chamber. "Help us promote #ShopTheHills through your networks by using some of the promotional items available."

Hide and seek for prizes

The "Explore The Hills" contest features a weekly scavenger hunt throughout town to find gift certificates placed in unique locations. This week's prize has been claimed but the clue was: "This famous Canadian author spent a period of time in our very own Norval, Ontario! Let your senses take over in this beautiful outdoor space dedicated to her vivid and loving descriptions of landscapes and nature. Shirley you know where we hid prize #3?! #ShopTheHills. Check out the Town of Halton Hills Facebook page for details about next week's clue.
