

ENVIRONMENTAL GROUP'S 2021 READ AVAILABLE AT LOCAL BOOKSTORES

Environmental advocates may want to swing by their local bookstore.

That's where copies of 'Saving Us: A Climate Scientist's Case for Hope and Healing in a Divided World' — this year's pick for the Halton Climate Collective Reads — are available.

Climate scientist Katharine Hayhoe's book aims to spark an act of unity in support of positive climate change.

HCCReads is a program of the Halton Climate Collective, created and driven by the Halton Environmental Network, in partnership with Halton-area libraries, local school boards and Greening Sacred Spaces.

The program strives to engage the community in climate discussions. Last year, 2,800 Halton residents were engaged in the initiative.

Copies of 'Saving Us: A Climate Scientist's Case for Hope and Healing in a Divided World' will be available at:

- IndigoSpirit, 280 Guelph Street, Georgetown
- IndigoSpirit, 1180 Steeles Avenue East, Milton
- A Different Drummer Bookstore, 513 Locust Street, Burlington
- IndigoSpirit, 485 Trafalgar Road, Oakville

'Saving Us' is a multilayered look at science, faith, and human psychology.

A leader in her field, Hayhoe was recently named chief scientist at The Nature Conservancy. She is also the Endowed Professor in Public Policy and Public Law and Paul W. Horn Distinguished Professor at Texas Tech University. Hayhoe was a lead author for the U.S. Second, Third, and Fourth National Climate Assessments, hosts the PBS digital series Global Weirding, and has written for The New York Times. Her TED Talk 'The Most Important Thing You Can Do to Fight Climate Change: Talk About It' has been viewed over five million times.

She combines research and personal stories in her attempt to unite readers, including those who deny the overwhelming evidence of climate change, and motivate them toward action.
