Local residents aged 18 and older can now book their third dose of COVID-19 vaccine through Halton Public Health's online booking system. According to the region, "appointments may be limited" at its clinics, with Halton health officials asking for patience from the community as they work to provide boosters to residents aged 50-plus and immunocompromised groups, in addition to prioritizing doses for five to 11-year-olds.

"Thank you to our incredible clinic team who are working hard to vaccinate as many people as possible, especially as we head into the holidays," said Regional Chair Gary Carr.

With the rapid spread of the Omicron variant, Halton Medical Officer of Health Dr. Hamidah Meghani said it's important for all residents to continue to do their part.

"This includes reducing your contacts with others as much as possible by switching to virtual gatherings and limiting in-person gatherings, staying home when sick even with mild symptoms, and getting vaccinated with your first, second or third dose when you can," she said.

"All Health Canada-approved vaccines are safe and effective, and the first vaccine available to you is the best option to provide protection against COVID-19, including Omicron. Thank you to everyone for their patience as we work to get third doses to those most at-risk right now and for continuing to do your part."

Halton Region says it's experiencing a high volume of inquiries and asks that residents only call 311 if you require assistance booking an appointment or don't have Internet access.
