The pandemic has presented challenges to Ashley Kriener's care for her mother.

"Seeking medical help for my mom was always difficult because she's developmentally delayed and she needed me with her. But since no visitors were allowed, it was always such a fight to get to go with her."

"The unpredictable school interruptions were very, very tough on my kids. The extended time off school for them also meant my husband and I had to dip into our vacation days from work to get the time off so we could watch them."

— Karen Humphries
