LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

GENEROUS SPIRIT ALIVE AND WELL IN TOWN

On Feb. 1, the second day of restrictions being lifted, three friends and I arranged to meet for dinner at Symposium in Georgetown.

Though we only meet two or three times a year, these are always fun times, with lots of laughter, and this time was no exception.

Added to the usual banter, there were Christmas gifts to be had, and some of these caused a lot of amusement.

In the restaurant at the same time was a young man at the bar. He commented on how great it was to see people out laughing and enjoying themselves — something which has been missing in our lives for a long time due to COVID. Added to which there were other health issues we had been dealing with, which had caused some anxiety.

As the evening drew to a close, I asked the waitress for our bill, and was told it had been paid.

We were stunned, and for the first time that evening we were speechless. The young man, whom I believe had only come in for a couple of beers, had paid for all four dinners and drinks, which must have amounted to a considerable sum.

In these times, when most of the news appears to be bad, it is wonderful to know that there is such kindness and generosity right here in Georgetown among strangers.

I hope that our young friend knows the appreciation we feel at his actions, and we too will "pay it forward" to someone we meet.

His actions that night will stay with us for a long time.

QUEEN'S COVID-19 DIAGNOSIS CAUSE FOR REFLECTION

When I heard that Queen Elizabeth II had been diagnosed with COVID-19, my mind immediately went to when Buckingham Palace was bombed during the Second World War.

After experiencing what it was like to have had her home bombed, Queen Elizabeth (later the Queen Mother) said that now she could look the Eastenders in the eye, knowing what it was like firsthand to have gone through what they had experienced when they were bombed.

While never doubting our present Queen's sympathy for and support of her Canadian subjects — and indeed, all those around the world — who have similarly been told that they have caught the virus, now our Queen, too, knows firsthand what it is like to have that diagnosis.

While thankfully Her Majesty has only mild symptoms, it demonstrates once again that our dear Queen can relate firsthand to what so many of her people go through in life.

How blessed we are to have Queen Elizabeth II as such a guiding force in our national and personal lives.

Upon hearing the news about the Queen having COVID, my family members and I gathered to pray for her safety and fast recovery.

May God bless her and long may she continue to reign over us.
