The Town of Halton Hills is offering interest-free loans to homeowners for retrofit projects.

TOWN OFFERING INTEREST-FREE LOANS FOR RETROFIT PROJECTS

The Town of Halton Hills has launched a pilot project to provide interest-free loans to help homeowners save on energy costs and reduce their impact on the environment.

RetrofitHH will allow up to 20 homeowners to implement home energy retrofits. The loans would be paid back through their tax bills under the local improvement charges program. The loan payments would be the responsibility of the property owner, regardless if the property changes hands.

The pilot program will allow the town to evaluate the interest, structure and process for potential widespread adoption.

"The Retrofit Halton Hills pilot program is a key component of the town's low carbon transition strategy," said Mayor Rick Bonnette. "Not only will it support the town's 2019 climate emergency declaration, the pilot will also help us deliver a retrofit program that enables all homeowners to become a part of the climate change solution."

Halton Hills is one of nine municipalities across Canada that was awarded funding through the Community Efficiency Financing home energy retrofit financing program to help deliver energy efficient financing programs for low-rise residential properties.

Funded by the Government of Canada and the Federation of Canadian Municipalities, the program raises awareness of the greenhouse gas emissions in the residential sector and encourages homeowners to implement home energy retrofits.

Additional information about retrofit and the benefits of energy efficiency and renewable energy can be found on the town's Retrofit Halton Hills webpage.
