Conservation Halton is looking for feedback as it conducts a review and update of its wetland mapping.

Wetland mapping is used as a screening tool to identify potential wetlands to determine if a property may be regulated by Conservation Halton.

Wetlands are the most biologically diverse kind of ecosystem, supporting both aquatic and terrestrial plant and wildlife species. Wetlands provide a range of benefits, such as flood management, water quality improvement, groundwater replenishment and climate resilience.

Conservation Halton regulates all watercourses, valleylands, wetlands, Lake Ontario shoreline, Burlington Bay shoreline, hazardous lands as well as any lands adjacent to these features.

Updated mapping supports the delivery of regulatory and planning programs and helps ensure wetlands are protected.

Draft mapping will be available for re-
