Football!

Hurry! Load the fridge with all those bottles and cans of drinkable drinks! Pack the cupboard with all those bags and boxes of munchies! Reserve your favorite "roost" in the family room! Why? What's up? The N.F.L. football season has started! Surely that information could not have escaped your attention! Okay, maybe the start of the season is not as momentous an occasion as it once was. I know, I know - there are televised football games almost year round now, with one league or another - but I mean real football! With a capital FOOT and BALL too! The real leagues that play, starting in mid-summer and last until January. They play in heat, and rain, and snow and cold. They play on muddy turf and they play on icy, cold, wet, mod sod. That's football!

Pay says I am now and have been hooked on football as long as she can remember. Do we go to a lot of games! No - hardly ever. Get it? it's not visiting the stadium to watch a game. No, it's the television broadcast that makes it all worthwhile. I can see more of the game on TV, what with zoom lenses, instant replay and multi-cameras, I might as well be right on the field. But don't I miss the crowd at the stadium and the atmosphere? Not this old footballer! I get to see that fantastic catch that made, in slo-mo and from three camera angles. And in most cases, the TV commentators comments can turn every game into an outstanding game.

Can any true football fan ever forget some of the classic commentator performances on the old Monday Night Football? With Howard Cosell, Don Meredith and Frank Gifford. Vintage stuff! Or how about Pat Summerall and the big Red Head? A true mix of knowledge and humor. And just think of some of those delicious Sundays near the end of December. Three full games in a day! Solid football from noon till midnight! First you see the early game from Buffalo, in the snow, then the game from sunny San Francisco, and wind up with the night game from the New Orleans Dome. What a fix for the football fanatic! It will keep him happy right up to the Monday night game.

Now, I don't want to give you the impression that I watch each and every play in each and every game. All of us heavy football fans know that you could never get away with that. Football is important - but divorce? Never!

So, the long lead up to the Grey Cup in Canada and the Super Bowl in the U.S. has started again. Ah, the pleasure of it all. I can hardly wait for Bo Sipa to sing out about his rowdy friends coming over on Monday night.

"Are you ready for the Football?"
