

32 Halton Hills Little Brothers waiting for male role model

There are 32 little boys in Acton and Georgetown waiting for Big Brothers. All are boys (between the ages of 6 and 14) who are from fatherless homes that could really benefit from a positive male role model in their lives.

"Dane" is an 8 year old boy who has been waiting two years for a Big Brother. Dane never knew his father as he left when Dane's mother was pregnant. Dane's mother has never received child support and is presently on welfare.

Dane's mother finds it increasingly difficult to meet the needs of her four young children. She hopes Dane will be matched to a Big Brother soon, as he needs the direction and companionship a male can provide.

He would like to play hockey and "hopes a Big Brother will teach him and practice skating."

Big Brothers of Halton encourages Halton Hills men of sound character to come forward and enjoy being a Big Brother. The agency creates suitable matches that work mutually for both Little and Big Brothers. The time commitment is four hours per week.

If you're interested in becoming a Big Brother to one of 32 waiting boys, or volunteering in another capacity for Big Brothers of Halton, call Joanne Stacey or Evelyn Gransaul at 847-7267 or 876-4756.

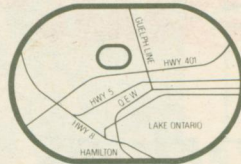

There.

Or you could stay home to do the raking. After all, raking means fresh air and exercise for the whole family. So does strolling through Mohawk's Fall Fair. And raking builds up an appetite. So does browsing through a multitude of booths that offer local handicrafts, fresh home-baking, breads, cheeses, and Mennonite apple pie. And while raking is exciting for some, you can't bet on who'll finish first. But you can wager on Saturday's $700,000

Metro Pace Final, featuring the two-year-old rising stars of the harness world. Which means you could really rake it in. So give yourself a break.

This Friday and Saturday, bring the family to Mohawk's Fall Fair.
