Police beat

Flasher sought

Halton Regional Police are continuing their investigation after a pair of incidents where a man "flashed" his genitals.

At about 5:30 p.m. Saturday, a female in the parking lot at Woolco said a man flashed her and then fled.

The suspect is described as a male, white, in his 20s, 5'8" (154 cm) tall with a medium build. He was wearing a red ski jacket jeans and a blue shirt. He had shoulder length brown hair and fled in a newer model shiny red similar to a Mercury Topaz.

Later that evening, a man entered the Becker's store on Delrex Blvd.

The man asked for some Egg Nog and while doing so a female in the store at the time noticed he had his pants unzipped and his genitals exposed, police at 11 Division in Georgetown said.

In the second case the suspect was about 30, about 5'9" (183 cm) with shoulder-length, brown, curly hair. He had a "thin face" with a scruffy beard.

Victim spat on

A 23-year-old Acton man has been charged with assault after a Georgetown woman was attacked at a Georgetown doughnut store last Thursday.

According to police, the victim, 19, and suspect had been involved in a relationship and became involved in an altercation.

The suspect became violent and spat on the victim, he then pushed the victim causing her shirt to rip and attempted to kick her in the head, police said. Police were called and the man is set to appear in a Milton court Nov. 23.

Arrest made

Halton Regional Police have charged a Brampton youth in connection with the October 18 assault of a doughnut store clerk.

The clerk was struck in the face after asking a person eating pizza to leave the store.

The 14-year-old is set to appear in court November 20.
