

Board of Education hands out 85 service awards

The Halton Board of Education recognized 85 board employees with over 25 years of service Wednesday evening at a ceremony at General Brock High School in Burlington.

"It is a time of unparalleled fiscal restraint to all of us," said board chairman Dave Coons, elaborating that in tough economic times it is sometimes tough to justify celebratory ceremonies.

"I believe what you're getting is a real and sincere appreciation for a job well done...We want to thank you for decades of commitment and service.

"You have made the difference to many many countless young people. Each of you here have many memories of the lives you have touched," Coons said.

Director of Education Bob Williams also congratulated the Club Silver recipients.

In Halton Hills, 11 board employees were honored.

For 25 years they are: Cindy Blades, George Kennedy Public School; Don Campbell, Georgetown District High School; David Lawrence, Georgetown District High School; Elizabeth Taylor, Glen Williams Public School; Gus Elliott, Harrison Public School; Kay Hannah, McKenzie-Smith Middle School; Tom Travis, McKenzie-Smith Middle School; John Felce, Stewarttown Middle School; John Kavanagh, Stewarttown Middle School.

For 30 years: Joe Bray of Georgetown District High School.

For 35 years: Keith Black, Acton High School.

Music was provided by the M.M. Robinson Jazz Choir, food by the General Brock Food School and centerpieces, corsages and boutonnieres by the General Brock floral design students.
