Tom Ramatarsingh (seated, center) along with a group of volunteers recently loaded books and educational materials into a truck bound for Grenada.

Locals send a gift to Grenada

Over the past eight years local resident Tom Ramatarsingh has been visiting Grenada in the West Indies to share in some educational activities.

On his visits, the 1988 Citizen of the Year in Georgetown and President of the Canadian College of Teachers (Niagara Chapter), has addressed the OCO (Organization and Cooperation of Overseas Development) Conference on the latest researches in Education, gave workshops, written papers on reading and learning styles, and took teams of Ontario educators to work in areas of curriculum development and assessment, Computers, Special Education and Guidance and Counseling.

During his visits to elementary and secondary schools, Mr. Ramatarsingh saw the great need for books and educational materials.

With the assistance of Michael Frederiksen (Peel Board of Education and a member of the first team to Grenada), about 4,000 books and educational materials were collected. These included class sets of novels, Shakespearean plays, drafting, accounting, history, geography, english, mathematics, science and other reading materials.

"The books and educational materials have arrived in St. George's, Grenada. It is a wonderful Christmas gift. Sharing and helping another Commonwealth country are things Canadians do best and the people of Grenada deeply appreciate this kind gesture and great assistance," Ramatarsingh said.

Mr. Ramatarsingh had great praise for several local businesses for their cooperation in bringing to reality "Operation stacking the libraries" in Grenada. They included: Georgetown's Terminal Warehouse for transportation), Foberts for storage, the McEnerys of Limehouse for storage, transportation and manpower.

A big thank you also went to Bob Sanderson of Bramalea where the two huge truck loads of materials were loaded into one of his containers. The Canadian Foundation for World Development delivered the container to the Ministry of Education in Grenada.
