

Just for Babysitters

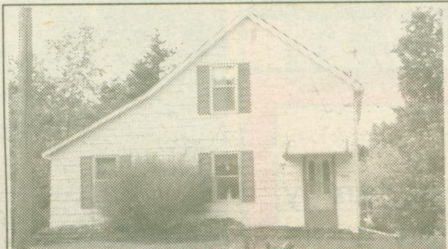

Does your babysitters know what to do in case of an emergency? Talk about it.

All emergency numbers (fire, police, ambulance, poison control, doctor, hospital, trusted neighbors) should be posted by the telephone. An important address to record in the same place in The address of the home you are in and if applicable, directions to the house should be written down.

Is your babysitter familiar with your household fire escape plan? If not, why not! Remember to tell him/her that their first and only important responsibility in a fire is to get their charges and self out of the home in the safest and quickest manner. Once out, stay out. Call the fire department from a neighbor's home.

For more information on this and other fire safety issues, please contact the Halton Hills Fire Department, Fire Prevention Division at 873-1133.
