Rebel soccer

By-Mike Zrostek

Everybody knows that not everything goes according to plan in sports. This was the case for the Georgetown District High School Rebels girls soccer team last year when coach Jack Brown's expectations didn't match the end results.

"We had a good team I thought, but we tied games that we should have won and that hurt us because we ended up about a point out of the playoffs," he said.

This year the turnout is a good one with about 28 girls vying for 17 spots on the team, including several from last year's squad.

"We are missing a lot of girls because they graduated but we have some returning who will help. The season starts at the end of April for the Rebels, playing teams from Milton High School, Oakville-Trafalgar High School and Bishop Redding, also from Milton, as well as a possible tournament appearance in early May.
