Park school 'Clowns' around

These days, there seems to be plenty of clowning around at Georgetown's Park Public School as teachers and students move into the final rehearsals for their upcoming production of "Clowns".

This delightful play is about a group of clowns who are searching the world for the meaning of life. By combining songs, with dance and laughter, the characters learn that the true meaning of life comes from within oneself.

According to Rick Nodwell, Principal of Park Public School, "Because of the relatively small size of our school, every student is participating in the play — as a member of the cast, choir or through their individual classes."

To further encourage participation in the production, students from all grades designed unique "promotional" posters which will be displayed throughout the school prior to and during the performances.

The three-performance production kicks off with a matinee at 1:15 p.m. on April 19, followed by two evening performances on April 20 and 21, starting at 7 p.m.

It goes to show that clowning around can be educational!

There's lots of clowning around going on these days at Georgetown's Park Public School as teachers and students rehearse for their upcoming production, Clowns. Three performances will be staged with a matinee April 19 and evening performances April 20 and 21.

Arts Alive brunch

By Lois Fraser
 Special

Arts Alive's annual Classical Brunch in memory of Ralph Ursel is a well-kept secret. Each year between 60 and 80 people come to the gallery for brunch followed by an hour of classical music. Those who come leave raving and return faithfully every year. We could probably fit 100 people in, so why not try it? Imagine professional classical musicians, church acoustics, stained glass artistry and a delicious brunch, all for $15.

This year's musicians are Stephen Green on cello at McGill University (Bachelor of Music), University of Toronto (Masters of Music) and the Nordwestdeutsche Musikakademie, Detmold, Germany. Stephen returned from a seven-year stay in New York City to play in the orchestra for Les Miserables in Toronto, Montreal and Calgary. Last summer, Stephen appeared in the Stratford Festival production of H.M.S. Pinafore. His next major project will be Miss Saigon at the new Princess of Wales Theatre in Toronto. Stephen is married to actress/director Elise Dewsberry who is currently working for Globe Productions as artistic director of the Mikado.

Pianist and conductor Yuri Meyrowitz gained recognition for his musical abilities at a young age. Winning an award from the America-Israel Cultural Foundation at the age of nine brought attention to his exceptional musical gifts and prompted Mr. Meyrowitz's move to Canada where his musical development came under the guidance of the legendary Rosina Lhevinne.

Mr. Meyrowitz has appeared regularly on CBC Radio and has been much in demand throughout North America and Europe as a piano soloist and conductor.

If you enjoy classical music and would like to share a special event with mom, your spouse or friends, please join us on Sunday, April 25 at 11 a.m. Tickets are available from Royal LePage, 170 Guelph St. and at the Georgetown Library. Come find out what you've been missing.
