

Georgetown woman charged with assaulting her husband

A Georgetown woman was charged with assault after punching and scratching her husband repeatedly April 21. The couple was married for three years and is currently going through a divorce. The woman will appear in court May 17.

Mutual charges

A Georgetown man was charged with assault after slapping his ex-wife April 23. The investigation is continuing due to allegations the wife slapped him back.

Multiple charges

A 31-year-old Georgetown man was charged April 23 with two counts of theft over $1,000, two counts of theft under $1,000, mischief over $1,000, impaired driving and driving with a disqualified licence following a string of events which took place March 30.

A car was stolen on Queen St. in Georgetown, early that morning, driven to Albert St., where it was rammed repeatedly into a parked vehicle, causing over $2,000 damage. The man then drove to the Fallingbrook Trail area and broke in to two cars, taking sunglasses and an undisclosed amount of cash. The man drove to Ninth Line, where he abandoned the car and stole another. He returned to the Albert St. residence and drove repeatedly into another car. The cars on Albert St. were reported by police to belong to the man's ex-girlfriend and her current boyfriend. The second stolen car was then abandoned and found by police several hours later.

The man is to appear in court June 14.

Model home ransacked

One of the Birchland model homes on Samuel Dr. in Georgetown was broken into sometime between April 22 and last Saturday afternoon. Thieves made off with over $5,000 worth of furniture, including a wooden desk, a swivel chair, armchairs, dining room chairs and a custom-built dining room table. According to a police report, the thieves allegedly visited the home before the robbery, posing as buyers, during which time they damaged the front door bolt. They returned when the house was empty and completely ransacked it. Police have no suspects or witnesses.

Youths made to clean up own mess

Two 12-year-olds were forced to clean up the mess they made after getting caught throwing cans of paint at Ollie's Cycle and Ski on Main St. in Georgetown. They threw one can at the window last Saturday evening and two cans at the wall and the pavement in front of the store the next morning.

Tips for barbecue use

It is important to use common sense when lighting or transporting your barbecue. Every year, people are injured needlessly while lighting their barbecue. Follow the manufacturer's instructions, open the lid and have the match or lighter already burning before you turn on the propane.

Always use and store your gas barbecue and any propane cylinders outdoors. When you are finished barbecuing, make sure you turn off the barbecue burners and the propane cylinder valves.

Transport propane cylinders in an upright position with the valve plugs in place, ensuring good ventilation. The best way to transport a cylinder is to place it inside a stable container in the trunk of your vehicle. The trunk lid should be secured with a device which will allow it to remain partially open. The rear floor passenger side of your vehicle can be used, providing the cylinder is secured and the rear windows are open.

Ensure the cylinder valve is completely turned off and the valve plug is in place whenever the cylinder is not connected to an appliance.
