"Adopt-A-School" program in the works

Varian Canada and Georgetown District High School are forming a new partnership, the first of its kind in Halton Hills.

The program is called "Adopt-A-School" and has a theme "linking business and education". The two partners already know each other well, having participated together in the Co-Op student program, and having helped each other in less formal ways. The program is designed primarily to benefit the students, but both partners should gain from the knowledge and expertise of the other.

Varian Canada is the Canadian subsidiary of Varian Associates of Palo Alto, California, and has been manufacturing in Georgetown since 1955. Varian manufactures a range of satellite communication amplifiers and oscillators, components and systems for communications and radar uses, and power supplies for both industrial and medical use.

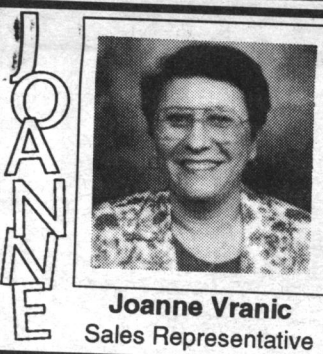

The company can offer students exposure to a competitive, high technology environment, through such initiatives as job shadowing, and demonstrate the relevance of school subjects in the "real

One goal of the initiative is to encourage other local firms, operating in different business environments, to forge similar partnerships with their local schools. To this end, there will be an opening ceremony on Monday at GDHS to which are invited members of the local business community and the local government.

The ceremony will take place in the GDHS cafetorium, beginning at 4 p.m.. Speakers from Varian, the school, and the school board will describe the aims and benefits of the initiative. As well, Co-operative Education students will be showcasing the results of their most recent job placements in the community.

The public is welcome to attend.
