

The lone try for Acton High School Redmen midget boys rugby team, in their 25-7 loss to Notre Dame, was scored by Brett Petrillo who evaded a last ditch tackle attempt to hit pay dirt.

Redmen swamped by Notre Dame

By Ellen Piehl

The Acton High Redmen midget boys rugby team paid a very high price for their weak offensive play in Tuesday's game against Notre Dame Secondary School of Burlington as they were defeated 25-7.

The Redmen offense seemed to be nowhere in sight during the first half. They struggled to move the ball out of their zone.

Mid-way through the half, Notre Dame opened the scoring on a penalty kick.

Dame tried desperately to cross the Redmen goalline late in the half, but with a strong defense, Acton managed to hold them back.

The second half wasn't any better for the Redmen. Not only their offense suffered, but their defense stopped working as well.

Dame scored four consecutive tries during the half to take a commanding 25-0 lead.

Acton's only try came on the very last play of the game when Brett Petrillo broke away on the right side of the field and crossed Dame's goalline.
