

Leafs scuttle Karioke night party

By Betty Sojka

The Hall Board learned it is pretty hard to compete with the Toronto Maple Leafs in a playoff game this past weekend.

Only about 50 people came out for the Karioke Dance Night. Held at the community centre, many an adventurous soul got up to sing. Bill and Trish of Sing It Again Entertainment provided the background music. Trish got the group

Mother charged with assault

A 60-year-old Georgetown woman was charged with assault Friday morning after shoving her developmentally handicapped daughter twice. The incident, which was witnessed by a North Halton Association for Developmentally Handicapped bus driver, is not the first one. The mother had been warned several times because of the same offense. She will appear in court June 28.

Smash and grab thief

An unidentified suspect broke into a Mountainview Laundromat on Mountainview Rd. Sunday around midnight, and then broke into the adjacent Mountainview Variety by smashing a hole in the drywall between both establishments.

The suspect entered the laundromat by breaking the lock on the rear door, then smashed a 30 by 45 inch hole in the bathroom wall, which enabled him to enter the freezer section of the variety store.

The suspect took an unknown quantity of cigars, cigarettes and lottery tickets.

According to a police report, the suspect knocked over a key-cutting grinder on his way out, which trig-

Before long, folks were getting up to sing in groups, duos, or by themselves. The crowd seemed more interested in listening to the singers attentively than dancing. With the small attendance, it was easier to feel less self-conscious. A real warm camaraderie developed over the evening.

During the delicious pot luck luncheon, the crowd clapped for their choice of best entertainer. Andy Terry of Mississauga was the decided winner of the $20 cash prize. Andy had sung a few songs throughout the night. Instead of spot prizes, as there was not much dancing going on, all the prizes were drawn as door prizes. The six lucky winners were Don MacMillan, Chris Tanner, Hans Van Klink, Jean Buston, Mel and Margaret Yeo. Bruno Carnelos is very much appreciated for being bar tender. Thanks, Bruno! Special heartfelt thanks go out to all who attended. Their support in turning what could have been a disaster into a really fun night will always be remembered.

When the Jim Dandies tackled the Red Hots in last Friday's game, the cold temperatures and high winds made it difficult for both teams to concentrate. The cold just seemed to seep into the players' muscles. Many a ball hit out field got help from a gust of wind, that sent it far past the fielder's outstretched hand. It was a night for fielders to scramble on both teams, and both teams earned points in the double digits. The Jim Dandies came out on top with a win.

Anyone taking a walk through the park will now see soccer posts installed. We are that much closer in having a soccer pitch, due to the kindness and generosity of Bruno Carnelos. Bruno hand-made these soccer posts, donated them and then even delivered. You can't be thanked enough, Bruno, for this. You are just the best!
