NOTICE OF STUDY COMPLETION

UPDATE OF ENVIRONMENTALLY SENSITIVE AREAS IN HALTON

On June 9, 1993, Regional Council adopted the results of the Environmentally Sensitive Area (ESA) Study (1993) as the basis for incorporating new ESA boundaries into the New Regional Official Plan. The 1993 ESA study is an important background study supporting the New Regional Official Plan.

Regional Council is currently reviewing the Regional Official Plan, a legal document that guides the physical development of the Region. A Draft New Regional Plan was released for public discussion in March 1993. Several public open houses and workshops were held during the months of March to May 1993.

The map below shows the existing ESA's, additions to existing ESA's and new ESA's.

The Downtown Market, 36 Main St. S. in Georgetown, will have its grand opening July 3. Booths are still available for artisans, food vendors, produce vendors and crafts people. Interested persons can call market manager Natalie Ramakers at 873-9543. photo by Oksana Buhel/HHTW

Downtown market pushing ahead

By Oksana Buhel

Plans for the Georgetown Downtown Market are moving right along. On June 11, the vending permit was granted, and all that's left before the July 3 opening is a few finishing touches on the building and the search for a few more vendors.

"I'm surprised we received the license so soon," said Natalie Ramakers, market manager. "I was told it would take six to eight weeks for the application to be processed. I was in every day, seeing if the permit was ready. I think they gave it to me just to get me out of their way."

Ramaker's persistence has carried over from her involvement with the proposed farmers' market on Highway 7, between Acton and Georgetown, which was not established because of bureaucratic complications. After the Highway 7 farmers' market failed, Ramakers saw the Main St. location and decided to start a market there. Unfortunately, the building was too expensive to purchase independently, so Ramakers spoke to the owner, Tony Spinnilli, and they became partners. Before Spinnilli purchased the building, it was owned by the town of Halton Hills.

The market will have craft vendors, artists, bakers and various other vendors. "It won't be a flea market," Ramakers explained. "We're hoping to find people to sell produce, baked goods and other prepared foods."

Eleven of the 22 booths have already been leased, at a cost of $50 per weekend. The market will be open Friday 5 - 9 p.m., Saturday 9 a.m. - 6 p.m. and Sunday 10 a.m. - 5 p.m. Ramakers is also looking for a food vendor for outside the market. Interested vendors can call Ramakers at 873-9543.
