Barbecue with care this summer

It's summer and the living is easy." The days are long, the weather's great - a perfect time to invite friends over for a barbecue.

Every year, the precious summer months are marred by needless accidents caused by the careless use of propane barbecues. With proper maintenance and by following some simple precautions, you can safely enjoy your propane barbecue for years to come. The Halton Hills Fire Department wants you to have an injury-free, fire-safe summer, so here are some important tips to follow this summer:

Always follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully when assembling a new barbecue. Use the type and size of cylinder recommended by the manufacturer. If you have any problems with assembly, call a qualified propane service person.

If you have not used your barbecue recently, make sure that the burner holes (ports) and the tube connecting to the burners are clear of rust and debris.

Test all connections for leaks. With the tank connected, open the tank valve and generously spread a soapy solution on all propane fittings, including the cylinder valve on the hose. If bubbles appear and become larger or increase in number, there is a leak. Never check for a leak using an open flame. Tighten or replace the leaky fitting or hose and retest. If you have any concerns, have your barbecue checked by a qualified propane service person.

The fitting that connects the barbecue to the cylinder could have a rubber "O" ring near the end. Check the ring every time you connect the cylinder. Replace the ring if it is cracked or out of shape. Enjoy your barbecue safely!

For more information on this and other fire safety issues, please contact the Halton Hills Fire Department, Fire Prevention Division at 873-1133.
