THE TRUST

A special meeting of the Downtown Brain Trust was called, at which time, the members were asked to review Canada Day and the political events leading up to the day.

It was apparent from the start of the meeting that the members were in a solemn, thoughtful mood. Some were in a fowl mood but that was, no doubt, caused by consuming BBQ'd chicken at a Canada Day event.

A member made note of the Capitol Commission issuing a cheque for $150,000 to Mila Mulrone, to compensate her for furnishings left behind. A stated savings of $250,000 as the new Prime Minister would not redecorate when they took over. This was certainly a smart move, by Ottawa standards, in that when the new P.M. moved in and decided to redecorate, the Commission would say "Oops" and sell the stuff off to a relative for $50,000 holding the net loss to $100,000. End result, all the people that count are happy. Mila is happy, the Commission is happy, the new P.M. is happy, the relative is happy... so don't look so sad!

Another member asked the meeting to comment on Kim Campbell's "across the country" odyssey, on Canada Day. Comments ranged from "great media coverage for Kim" to "a political coup for Kim...with an election coming, it was great exposure...and it was done at the public's expense - that's heady!" to "Who cares" to "jet lag" to "politics - schmoltics".

The next item for comment, was Kim Campbell's request that all Provincial Premiers come to dine in Vancouver. Stated reason - to give the P.M. input on the Canadian economy. Alleged reason - to give the P.M. a great photo opportunity sitting at the head of the table. Premier Bob declined and faxed his input on the economy. Everybody else attended. Seems like a hell of an expense for a few pictures! But a photo op is a photo op!

The Trust Chairman urged the membership to calm down, as some were getting downright surly over recent political events.

A member then rose and asked for comments on the Senate voting a $6,000 travel allowance. After a public outcry, they had second and more sober and mature thoughts - so they are going to spend even more money to come back to Ottawa, in mid summer, to reconsider. He wondered if anyone even thought of waiting until the Senate was reconvened in the fall, to save the travel expense. Apparently not - thus proving that there are no fools like old fools!

One of the surly Trust members then reviewed comments made on Canada Day, by the Prime Minister and the Governor General. Comments about our high standard of living. Comments about the vast job and business opportunities. Comments about Canada's rich past and rich future. Comments about Canadians being the envy of the world. The member noted that not a comment was made about the economic devastation of Canada's Heartland. Nary a promise that the new Government would not make the same terrible economic errors that were made by the last Federal Government.

As reported to me, the Chairman moved to adjourn the sad meeting by stating that "the more things changed - the more they stayed the same".
