Globe presents "Into the Woods"

By Brigida Callaghan
Georgetown Globe's summer production of "Into the Woods" has audiences squirming with anticipation. After examining the credits of the artistic team, it's no surprise, as this particular show provides quite a challenge musically, dramatically and with regard to movement or staging.

Artistic/Musical Director, David Ambrose, is excited to meet these challenges and lends a variety of talents in doing so. David is the resident choir director at Eden United Church in Mississauga. His directorial credits include Globe's first summer production, "Grease" (for which he was also musical director); and the Calbes Voice Studio production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown".

David himself is no stranger to the stage. He has performed in many productions including, most recently, the role of Pish Tush in Globe's "Mikado"; the role of Freddie in "My Fair Lady"; and "South Pacific". David has also performed in the Calbes Voice Studio productions of "Anne of Green Gables" in which he played Gilbert; and "Fiddler on the Roof" in which he played Motel the tailor. David has also performed in many concerts and has completed musically in both the Kiwanis and Peel Festivals.

In addition to David's community efforts, he has worked professionally with the Mississauga City Centre Opera Company as both performer and producer of "Die Fleidermaus", and has performed in many other productions, including "Kismet" and "Operetta Bravo".

As for dancing, the com-

pany is very lucky to have two imaginative choreographers in Allyson Tracey and Catherine Fettes. Allyson an accomplished performer/dancer in her own right, has assisted the dance captain in a variety of productions including Globe's "Guys and Dolls", "My Fair Lady" and "South Pacific", just to name a few. Catherine brings to the group six years of jazz and tap experience and has taught folk dancing. The two work well together and have created some delightful ensemble numbers. In addition to the choreography, both women are in the show as well.

"Into the Woods" brings together many bright features from some very talented and dedicated individuals whose imagination and creativity flourish throughout the production in the singing, acting and dancing of the cast. This production is certain to be another Globe hit - don't miss it!

"Into the Woods" opens July 27 at the John Elliott Theatre and runs until Aug. 1. Tickets are now available at Royal LePage Real Estate Services, 170 Guelph St., Georgetown.
