

Responsibility can't be passed over efforts of the provincial government to create garbage dumps in Halton-Peel instead of looking at the alternatives, which are so readily available.

This may not be perceived as a federal issue except that a ruling by an Ontario judge will allow the case to be contested in the Supreme Court of Canada. All elected people who serve the public should be equally concerned about the environment and about decisions which affect it.

There are no specifically federal, provincial or municipal challenges, nor are there any specifically federal, provincial or municipal citizens. There is only one taxpayer and only one environment, and people who are elected to serve the public must be aware the days of passing on responsibility from one area of government to another are over.

Canada is a country of great diversity. My personal belief is that a strong federal government, pragmatic in its approach to the issues of the day, can best serve our kind of country.

Bringing fresh ideas to government have been a major part of this candidate's previous political experience. Non-utility generation of electric power and the "now beginning to thrive" ethanol industry in Ontario are two such ideas which were presented to government from the position of an opposition shadow cabinet portfolio.

Some new ideas I will take to the federal system will be:

- The reform of the budgetary process to allow for public debate before the money is spent;

- The reform of the accounting process in ministries which will reward departments for not spending their full budget for the year instead of the current process which literally forces department heads to spend all of their budget or risk cuts in following years;

- Redundant departments should be identified and done away with;

- Ministries that overlap between federal and provincial jurisdiction must be examined with a view to deciding which area of government will take control;

- The encouragement of sustainable development, i.e., solid economic growth that will not harm, but may even enhance the quality of our environment. It is better to light a candle than to curse the darkness.

I will support a review of the complete Justice system, including the Young Offenders Act, the administering of sentences, the administering of sentences, the profiting from crime, with special attention to crimes of violence.

Our country is ill, choking on debt. It will require some surgery, i.e., spending cuts and a lot of intensive care by a qualified recovery team.

The chief surgeon and the recovery team should be as experienced as possible. Ten years in the Ontario Legislature, serving four shadow cabinet portfolios is a good start.

Taking back control all my life, having to "make a buck" in the open market, and having built my own manufacturing business from scratch over the past 15 years.

Reform is offering Canadians the opportunity to take back control of their own country through reform of Parliament, economic reform and reform of our criminal justice system.
