Residents irate over council attitude

"How 'bout beside your place?" yelled out a member of the gallery.

Councillor Pam Johnston also praised the eight-story, 60 UPA maximum and added not all local residents were opposed to the application. She informed councillors she had spoke with area resident Arthur Beach, who supported the proposal.

"Yeah, so what," demanded another member of the gallery. "He's just one resident."

When Johnston criticized the level of respect "given to a person when speaking," members of the gallery quickly shot back they couldn't believe "the lack of respect given to a community."

Mayor Russ Miller also did not have any luck in calming the residents. "I can't believe what I'm hearing," he said. Again the gallery was quick in it's criticism. "Then open your ears and really listen," rang out.

Everything quieted down when the time came to vote on the bill.

In a recorded vote, the bill was carried 11-2. Councillors who voted against the bill were applauded, while those who voted for the bill were advised by members of the gallery to "watch out when the (municipal) election came."

"They don't give a damn," mumbled an unidentified disgruntled woman.

D.A.R.E. program thrives in Halton

By Eileen Ross.

The D.A.R.E. program (Drug Abuse Resistance Education.) has maintained a strong standing in Halton Region for the past four years. The D.A.R.E. program is taught to Grade 6 students to promote drug abuse awareness. The program has recently merged with a non-profit, charitable fundraising organization.

D.A.R.E. Halton receives financial support from both the Halton Roman Catholic and Public School Boards, as well as various service clubs and businesses. In order to increase public awareness and to include all Grade 6 students in the region, D.A.R.E. Halton will be conducting several community fundraising events. Both of the Halton School Boards are pitching in to help out.

The fundraising will be taking place in Burlington, Oakville, Milton, and Georgetown elementary schools. The Roman Catholic School Board will be co-sponsoring with D.A.R.E. Halton, a community walk-a-thon on Saturday, Oct 23 at each of it's elementary schools.

Meanwhile, throughout October, students of the Halton Board of Education will be promoting the sale of D.A.R.E. packages containing Halloween treats.

Les Warrington, chair of D.A.R.E. Halton remarks "Our mandate is to raise $375,000 annually to maintain the current level of service and instruction. We need your community support. Without it the D.A.R.E. programs existence is in jeopardy. Your increased patronage of these initiatives will ensure D.A.R.E.'s continued success in our school systems."

The public is asked to show their support of the D.A.R.E. program by sponsoring a student in the walk-a-thon so that continued success is met.
