

Norval land dilemma still not resolved

By Oksana Buhel

When Norval lands encompassing a historic cemetery were transferred from the registry system to the Land Titles System, two important documents were not taken into account, and Town of Halton Hills councillors are demanding, "why?"

Councillor Kathy Gastle announced at Tuesday's Town of Halton Hills council meeting, two deeds existed, dated in 1854 and 1857, which indicated a portion of the lands were registered as a cemetery. She added when the transfer process was taking place, only the past 40-year history of the area was investigated, which completely neglected the two documents.

The lands in question, which belong to Julian and Deanna Reed, lie on Pinecrest Road in Norval. In 1991, an application was submitted to the town to establish a five lot plan of subdivision on the land, which includes the old McNab burial ground.

Mississauga Indians and children, who died as a result of a mid-1800's epidemic were reportedly buried on these lands, as well as several McNab settlers and members of the community. A number of graves and monuments were later moved to Hillcrest Cemetery, also in Norval.

Bruce MacNabb, descendant of the original owners maintains the records of the transfers were stolen, but Julian Reed said they were lost in a fire. Either way, the possibility of remaining graves on the land is a concern.

Gastle admitted the required archeological research assessment study and a more detailed electro-magnetic study had been conducted on the property, but pointed out the latter study had only been completed on a portion of Reed's lands.

"It (the electro-magnetic study) was only done on 625 square metres," Gastle said. "That's not even a quarter of the subject lands."

Municipal legal administrative coordinator, Stephen Thomson, suggested the company which conducted the archeological investigation - Mayer, Poulton and Associates, "probably did the electro-magnetic study only in the area which was most likely to have graves."

Gastle was not appeased. Her concerns were echoed by Councillor Ron Chatten, who said, "It seems the information provided is incomplete." He suggested that before the subdivision agreement is granted, the entire area should be studied.

Councillor Norm Elliott suggested council seek legal advice.

Council voted to refer the matter to the Ontario Cemeteries Board for clarification of the 1855 and 1857 deeds and any other pertinent registry deeds. Council also agreed that if Reed's subdivision application is approved, a means of access must be provided from the town Line to the cemetery for the purpose of maintenance and public access.

Councillors are on their own

By Oksana Buhel

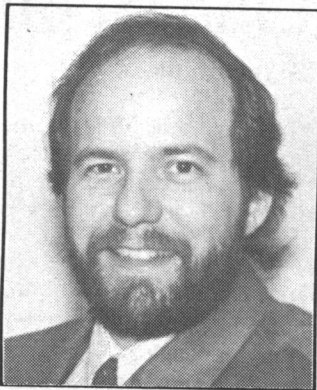

Town of Halton Hills councillors jointly indicated that individual councillors who wish to express nonconformist views will be left to fend for themselves.

At Tuesday's Town of Halton Hills council meeting, Councillor Rick Bonnette introduced a notice of motion stating council should emphasize that the view, "as expressed by Councillor Rob Heaton regarding the Citizens' Committee on Property Tax Reform, are not reflective of the collective views of this council" and the three committee representatives of Halton Hills are informed of this.

In September, Heaton wrote on a public comment sheet distributed at a Citizens' Committee of Property Tax Reform meeting "the whole proposal is a total sham!!!"

Molly Monahan, member of the committee, complained to council Heaton was criticizing the committee and its report. Heaton argued he was criticizing the region's role in the market value assessment study.

Councillor Kathy Gastle asked Monahan if she had spoken with Heaton when the incident occurred, to determine what he meant by "the whole proposal." Monahan admitted she had not.

Monahan's other protest was that Heaton was insinuating he was speaking for the town by signing the comment sheet "councillor."

A number of councillors agreed with Monahan. Councillor Gerald Rennie assured her "Mr. Heaton's comments are worth nothing."

Bonnette's notice of motion was supported 9-3 in a recorded vote. Gastle, who did not support the notice, along with Councillor Gail Rutherford and Ron Chatten, pointed out councillors often speak out at meetings and it is not assumed they are representing the views of the entire council.

Better results than GICs. Before and after tax.

Industrial Income Fund

1 year	3 year	5 year	10 year	since inception
15.0%	15.2%	10.2%	13.0%	10.9%

The story: pre-tax results for Industrial Income Fund have outpaced GICs by a big margin. Better still, after allowing for Revenue Canada, the difference gets even bigger.

The reason: the skilled money management of Mackenzie, coupled with lower income tax payable on the dividends and capital gains which form part of the fund's quarterly distribution.

The lesson: for the full story on better returns - before and after tax - from a portfolio more than 75% invested in securities which are fully guaranteed for principal and interest payment by the federal government, you should speak with your independent financial advisor. Today.

Important information about this offering is contained in the Fund's simplified prospectus. Obtain a copy from us and read it carefully before investing. Unlike GICs, unit value and investment return for mutual funds will fluctuate. The indicated rates of return to September 30/93 are the historical annual compounded total returns, including changes in unit value and reinvestment of all distributions, and do not take into account sales, redemption, or optional charges payable by an investor which would have reduced returns. Past performance is not necessarily indicative of future returns.

Fabric Care TIPS

~ Sixty Fifth of a Series ~

Take Care

When was the last time a cleaning process damaged a favourite shirt, suit or dress? Although the care label instructions were followed, the garment did not respond well to the manufacturer's recommended method. Luckily, there are steps that can be taken to avoid disasters during the cleaning process.

What Are Care Labels?

Care labels, the permanent label or tag that contains regular care information and instructions attached inside a garment, give the proper cleaning method for the garment. A garment cleaned by the method prescribed on a care label is expected to undergo the process with no problems.

Besides giving full instructions for at least one satisfactory method of care, a care label should warn about any part of the procedure that could harm the garment or others being laundered or cleaned at the same time.

Follow Care Label Instructions

To insure the best cleaning performance, always read and follow the care instructions. Use of a care method not specified on a care label may be risky. For further information about care labels, please contact Barragers Cleaners.
