

VISITING IN DOWNTOWN GEORGETOWN

Like the black lab who buried his master's lower dentures in the backyard. They were eventually recovered six weeks later, fully intact with not a scratch on them, however, covered in dirt! The man had already purchased a new denture, as he had searched high and low without success. Oh well, at least he can keep it as a spare.

Some guys have all the luck, unlike another fellow who's dog wasn't so gentle. This pooch must have been drooling over one too many dog chow commercials when he spied his master's dentures perched irresistibly on the arm of an easy chair. Five chomps later, all that was left were a few fractured teeth and some pink plastic bits covered in doggy drool. I'm certain old Rover spent a few nights in the dog house for that one!

And if you think children are so sweet and innocent, just listen to these shinannigans. Like the little girl who stole grandma's denture right out of the denture bath, where it was innocently soaking, minding its own business. She thought she would use them as a teething ring. Ain't that the cutest?!

Now some kids are just a tad bit more aggressive than others. It's far too easy to just stalk innocent unsuspecting denture cups and swipe them when no one is looking! This particular baby decided Grandma was making one too many funny faces up close, and simply reached into granny's mouth and pulled out her lower denture! And, if that wasn't bad enough, to grandma's horror, decided to toss them helplessly across the room, where they sustained minor injuries colliding with the toaster oven! Grandma's little angel!

I just couldn't leave out one of the most popular ways to lose your denture. Whether they've indulged the night before with too much 'elbow bending', or they just plain catch a flu bug and the old stomach just can't take it anymore, those poor plates end up in the toilet. People desperately grabbing for them as the suction of the water swiftly hurls them into the sewer. So that's why those Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles have such perfect smiles.

Finally, as Christmas is fast approaching, I must warn all you denture wearers now - denture breakage, or loss, almost always happens at the most inopportune times, such as the Christmas holidays. So if you're traveling, don't pack them in your luggage, if the luggage gets lost, so do your dentures! And if they fall out in your soup, very discretely fish them out! Or while hitting those high notes while singing those Christmas carols, and you find your denture in your song book, just hope the others have had one too many egg nogs and didn't notice. And if Aunt Emma's turkey just isn't as tender as it used to be, prevent breakage - soak it in gravy! And remember, even old Saint Nick himself has mishaps with his dentures now and again. If his dentures break, then Santa Claus is 'gumming' to town!
