Medical insurance plan introduced by Voyager

Voyager Insurance Company, Canada's largest provider of travel insurance, this week announced the launch of a new emergency medical insurance plan called "TravelCare" for snowbirds and other longer-term travelers.

The plan will provide unlimited medical benefits for travel of up to 183 days in an arrangement that seeks to hold down costs without sacrificing health care standards. It will be available through more than 4,000 travel agencies across Canada and started Oct. 15.

"With some emergency medical insurance premiums rising by more than 375 per cent over the last three years, the need existed for a plan that combined unlimited benefits with lower premiums," said John McKenna, chief operating officer of Voyager. "TravelCare is easy to understand and offers top value by providing coverage that is free of deductibles, medical questionnaires and more restrictive conditions, at an affordable cost," he added.

To contain costs without compromising health care standards, TravelCare draws on the services of Medirect, a newly formed network of some 85,000 accredited hospitals and doctors around the world, with particular concentration in Florida, Arizona and California. Travelers requiring emergency medical care can call TravelCare's 1-800 number staffed by medical and insurance specialists who refer them to the closest Medirect facility.

For travelers receiving care through the Medirect network, the plan pays 100 per cent of all eligible medical costs directly to the medical provider. This way, travelers avoid having to pay up front costs or worrying about subsequent billings. If a traveler chooses to receive care outside of the Medirect network, TravelCare will then reimburse them 70 per cent of the eligible medical costs.

Walter Schutte, chief operating officer, Assured Assistance, a sister company of Voyager, said: "Because of the expected volume of business, and our unique, direct-payment process, members of the Medirect network have guaranteed us quality care for our policyholders and favorable pricing. Depending on age and length of stay, a traveler can achieve savings of up to 40 per cent by using TravelCare."

Canadians account for more than $200 million a year in medical expenditures in Florida alone. Recognizing this, Voyager drew on the expertise of top Canadian and U.S. actuarial firms to assist in the development and pricing of TravelCare for the same cost," he added.

Voyager is a member of the Royal Bank group of companies and has been selling insurance to Canadians through travel agents for more than 25 years. For further information, contact Roos Travel at 873-2000.
