4-H members honored with special night

By Betty Sojka
Special to HHTW

Many 4-H members in the area could be found Nov. 27 at the Nassagaweya Community Centre in Brookville. Along with a pot luck supper, an awards night was held. These awards were for clubs throughout Halton County, which gives you an idea of the number of children and teens involved.

There was over a hundred in attendance consisting of members, leaders and parents. Travis Ella was awarded a very high honor by the Halton/Peel Pork Products Association Award for the "Most Outstanding 4-H member having under 12 projects completed. Nathan Ella received a pin for completing six projects.

Also from the Ballinafad Club, Ericka Mitchell will be going to the Old Mill restaurant in Toronto on Monday to be honored for her 4-H efforts by the Kiwanis. The Kiwanis Club sponsors and supports the Halton County 4-H Clubs.

Over in Churchill, the Walsma family came up big with awards. John Walsma received his 12-Project Pin. Terri-Anne Walsma, honored for being the top secretary in Halton County, was given a Secretary's Pin. A leather portfolio was given to Lisa Walsma for being the top Press Reporter. For being the top senior of the Vet Club, she received a James Herriot book. Her outstanding leadership skills, and getting along well with others were recognized when Lisa was awarded the Stanley May Trophy, which is a very high honor. Lisa will also be attending the Kiwanis luncheon. It was noted that the Halton 4-H Beef Club was the top placing club at the Royal Winter Fair. Brad Swackhammer placed 5th in the Queen's Guinea Class. Congratulations to all these winners! You did great!

On Nov. 24, you weren't seeing things when you saw a two-storey white house traveling along the 8th line in the morning. Bob Paul had built himself a new home and so was no longer in need of the 3-bedroom former home of Lena and Fred Sinclair.

In steps Jim and Alice Sanderson. After a year's planning and getting the proper approval, movers came in to the Paul's property. It took them a couple of days, jacking up the house and placing the steel beams underneath. Closing down the road, it was only a short while of actual traveling time for the half mile move to the Sanderson farm, on the corner of the 8th and Town Lines.

Jim had built a foundation with basement ready for the house. It will probably be the spring before Jim and Alice are able to move into their new home. A number of items have to be completed to the lot. You have to hand it to Jim and Alice. They have taken recycling one step further.

On the pretense of attending a Jim Dandies fund-raising dance, Dan McNiven got a big shock when he arrived at the community centre last Saturday night. The party was for him. Seems Dan has just turned the big 50. Over 150 people were there to wish him well, some coming from as far away as Alberta. Dan's brother and mother had some cute "Little Dan" stories from his childhood. Helen Lakusta was very entertaining as MC. Gerry Burgan as the D.J. had a terrific supply of music throughout. Happy! Happy! 50th, Dan!

Much appreciation and thanks go out to "Sues Moves Fitness" for sponsoring the November newsletter. Sue is the instructor for the body sculpting and aerobics class held every Monday and Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the community centre. Your first class is free. Call Sue at (519) 833-2128 for more information, or just drop in at a class.
