Long-Term care meeting Tuesday

Long-Term Care Reform/Multi-Service Agency(s) Information Meeting Tuesday, 1:30-3:30 p.m. at the Halton Hills Cultural Centre, 9 Church St. Georgetown.

Current or future users of Long Term Care Services (meals-on-wheels, transportation, nursing care, etc.) and those involved with them may wish to attend this important meeting. This Long-Term Care Reform includes virtually all in-home health and supportive services which are currently received by seniors and the physically disabled.

Major changes are pending. The Halton Long-Term Care Committee will eventually decide what shape the Multi-Service Agency(s) take in Halton County and plan on basing their decisions on community input and reaction to various suggestions and options.

Once you have heard the presentation you may want to respond at the meeting or your and your friends or family may feel strongly about some issues and want to call the Long-Term Care Committee or write a letter.

Transportation can be arranged if you need a ride to the meeting. Call Acton Social Services and Information Centre (ASSIC) at 853-3310.

Community holds vigil against violence

All residents are invited to a community vigil this Monday, 7:30 p.m. at St. George's Anglican Church on Guelph St. in Georgetown, to remember victims of violence.

It was four years ago on that date that 14 women were murdered in Montreal's Ecole

Polytechnique. This year, people in cities and towns across Canada will gather to commemorate those women, and all victims and survivors of violence.

"We're calling it a service of remembrance, and of commitment to change and transformation" says Linn

Kingston, who helped organize the service with women from three local churches: St. George's, St. John's United and Holy Cross.

Through readings, prayers, singing and silent meditation, those present will be able to ponder the theme, "First We Mourn, and Then We Work for Change."

They will also light candles in memory of the women of Montreal and other victims of violence, some to be named aloud, "others named silently in our hearts."

Organizers point to recent news reports that half the women in Canada say they have been assaulted at some time in their lives.

There will be an offering during the short vigil in support of Halton Women's Place, a shelter for battered and abused women. Everyone is invited to stay for refreshments and conversation afterwards.

For further information, please call Linn at 873-3383.

Promenade Auditions

By Peter Roe
GLT Publicity

Director Jacky Willows' next production hits the John Elliott Theatre stage in February, but the shoes of the characters of David V. Robinson's Promenade all need to be filled first!

Promenade is "a heavenly chunk of life," enthuses Willows. "It doesn't miss anything as far as people, attitudes, behaviors - plus it's a little naughty to boot!" laughs Jacky. "It's a real challenge for any actor who's interested. It's a real challenge for me."

Boasting a cast of three males and one female, Promenade depicts four successive generations of the same family from 1895 to 1975, thereby challenging the actors with several roles!

Auditions will be held at 33 Stewarttown Road (GLT headquarters), Dec. 14 and 15 at 7:30 p.m., following the Christmas production, Mother Goose.
