

Darts

Midpoint of season

The Alf Oates tourney ended the darts at the Georgetown Legion for the Industrial League half season.

The winners were Brad Youmans, Colin Brown, Mike Weston and Dan Abercrombie. They defeated a strong four in Terry Hancock, Beau Beaumont, Mike Pepper and Joe Cairns in the final. Losing semi-finalists were the squads of Neil Olmstead, Doug Harley, Gord Bottoms and Bruce Capriol and Jeff Richardson, Erwin See, Eric Fuller and Al Gardiner.

The tourney was played in four groups of round-robin play to decide the semi-finalists and a great deal of good humor rent the air. The format allowed players of different teams and standards to play together, thereby pitting good and lesser players in teams, and it worked out well.

Afterwards, the players moved across the road to the Oddfellows for the usual festive fare and refreshments, and some more darts.

The Halton League also cleared the halfway mark and renew activity on Jan. 10. Legion Three continue to lead the way, although their lead has been reduced to four points in the last couple of weeks. Brackys Boys have own big, as they say, whilst Three have won small. Everything now points to a battle for the top places until the close of the season.

As matters stand for the moment, Legion Three have 143 points, Brackys 139, Legion Four 119, McGibbon 118 and Charleys One 113.

With 14 points at stake each match night, a large win/loss swing can make a huge difference.

Match if the week has to be Time Out's 8-6 result with Legion Three. It must be said that the shortage of players in Three allowed four of the six points to Time Out. At the board, John Colter won his single over Bruce Hope. At the doubles, James Tughan and Alan Farmer defeated Pete Pickering and Derek Hedley in an upset for the form book.

Brad Youmans led the individual stats for the night with 18, 12 being bonus points. A 156 and four 140s is good going in anyone's books. Dave Scutt, Dave McNeilly and Paul Kirby scored 180 each. Brian Ward, Dave Scutt, Al Murphy and Mike Pepper shot double 140s. Newlywed Patti Olmstead notched the high finish of the night with 135 (we could have fun with that!). Youmans took out 112 and Al Murphy closed 100, Rob Campbell scored 160 and several players scored a single 140 and other high bonus scores.

Hurricanes are struggling

The Flux Cored Halton Minor Novice AAA Hurricanes had a rough week of hockey leading up to Christmas, losing three straight games as the flu bug hit the team.

Lacking hustle the Hurricanes dropped a 7-0 game to Welland Dec. 18, a 5-1 decision to Brantford on Dec. 20 and then closed out the week with a 7-3 loss to Niagara Falls Dec. 22.

With many players out due to the flu bug or trying to play through it, there weren't many highlights in the three games.

Adam Kemp scored twice while Todd Gilmore and Danny Syuret had singles as the Hurricanes only mustered four goals in the three outings.

Jason Russell, Nat Wicken and Kemp assisted on the goals.

Against Brantford, Kemp counted the lone Hurricanes marker unassisted with an end-to-end rush.

Against Niagara Falls, Darren Trull provided a spark in the Hurricane line-up.
