Onstage in Dr. Cook's Garden

Dr. Cook's Garden, a Georgetown Little Theatre Production, goes on stage at the John Elliott Theatre Feb. 19, 20 and 24 through to 27.

To help the cast and crew make the play truly authentic, director Neville Worsnop and Producer Dorothy Hunt have called in medical and horticultural experts.

Dr. Len Landry of Milton is acting as medical advisor to make situations in the play believable. "Of course," said Landry, "I don't use the chemicals as specified in this play in my everyday line of work! But I have done some research on poisons and antidotes so we can get it right." David O'Drowsky, a landscape gardener from Acton, is helping the set designer to create Dr. Cook's garden right on stage.

The reason for all this research will be evident when Lloyd Lindsay and Eric Witvoet take the stage as Dr. Cook and Dr. Tennyson. Tickets for this suspenseful thriller by Ira Levin are available Tuesday and Thursday between 4:00 and 8:00 p.m. at the Theatre Box Office, or by calling anytime 877-3700.
