Heritage workshops planned for fall

BY DOUG HARRISON
The Acton Tanner

If there's a heritage site that you feel is integral to Acton and Heritage Halton Hills doesn't know about it, pencil in the autumn for some important workshops.

Through funding from the Town of Halton Hills and the Ontario Heritage Foundation, Heritage Halton Hills, formerly called Local Agricultural Conservation Advisory Committee (LACAC), is introducing a project to find out what the citizens of Acton feel is of heritage value in the rural areas of the Niagara Escarpment.

There will be approximately 20 available spaces for the workshops. For people who can't attend the workshops, Heritage Halton Hills consultant Pamela Kaufman says there will be an open forum after their completion for other views to be heard.

"We have a new outlook to preserve buildings and the context around them," says Kaufman, who adds the workshops will let people explain what they think is of heritage value and discuss issues that they feel are important in the preservation of rural landscapes.

Heritage Halton Hills is a citizens' committee that advises Town Council on any matter relating to the designation and conservation of heritage resources.

Kaufman says there will be a document in about four months of what people feel is important. It will then be brought to a formal discussion on their concerns and what they consider important about heritage preservation.

"We have a vision to prepare for the future through conducting inventories and identifying heritage properties rather than only reacting to requests or threats," Kaufman explains.

Anyone who is concerned about the future of rural heritage resources along the Niagara Escarpment and are interested in participating in the workshops can contact the Town of Halton Hills at 873-2600 and leave your name and number. You will be contacted as soon as possible.
