THE WRATH OF GRAPES

WITH DON CHERRY

Did anyone vote NDP?

More on the French language debacle in Quebec (which I opened up in last week's column). The signs will now be bilingual, in accordance with the province's French language laws, according to transportation ministry spokesman Anne McLaughlin said. (Why couldn't they say spokeswoman, anyway?) What's this spokesperson bull? Talk about Saint hearts!

Get this now — on the signs, let's say the downtown signs, where it now says Centre-de-ville, we now have two arrows pointing — yes I said two arrows (I guess the one arrow is a French arrow). And have you noticed that the colours on the new signs are green and yellow? Yeh, the NDP colours (funny I can't find one person that will admit voting NDP).

One politician who makes sense

Mayor Hazel McCallion (God love her) has balanced the Mississauga budget and has not raised Mississauga taxes. She tells it like it is: "Let's get our priorities in order — we have bigger problems than road signs in this economy."

But nooo ... let's not listen to a person who can talk sense and balance a budget, let's listen to the wisdom of a person who comes up with this statement about the French signs (and I quote): "We will eliminate clutter in our signs." Guess which one of the signs will be eliminated!

"Reduce Speed on Wet Pavement." In other words, Slippery When Wet. Well, when we do a spinout and crash into a wall and get killed we can take comfort in knowing that we are learning to speak French.
