poylees.

"He was a complete and natural person and was attentive to what we were talking about," said company general manager Alec Kitson.

Lyons, who has never voted Liberal, openly admitted he will change his ways come Monday.

"We need somebody who can identify with the people and crank things up. I think we've got the right guy," Acton Precision operations manager Wes Kutasienski said.

"I don't see how we can generate anything in construction without doing it. There are 700,000 people in construction and we can't fill a pot hole. The only way to do it is to spend money.

"I felt I shook the hand of the next prime minister."

Reed was thrilled Chretien was able to visit the local riding.

"Chretien cares about Canada — all of it, this riding included. He is just as interested in seeing Acton prosper as any community. He's never been in this riding and out of 295, to choose Acton, I was quite happy."

Businesses support AHS with awards and donated by local businesses. "I don't think there is any other community this size that would generate the number of awards we do. You look at all of the businesses in the community — they give so much to be supportive of what is going on in the school," said vice principal Paul Tamblyn.

Many of the award recipients were multiple winners, including all three of the school's top students in each grade. The three, Stephanie Faseruk, Sarah Austin and Ryan Telford, received plaques and cheques for their accomplishments.

Stephanie Faseruk, who received the Herrington Printing Award for top Grade 9 student, also received the Galvcast Manufacturing Award for advanced French, the Dr. P. Lemiski Mathematics Award, the Subway Award for English-History, and the Halton Cable Systems Award for technology.

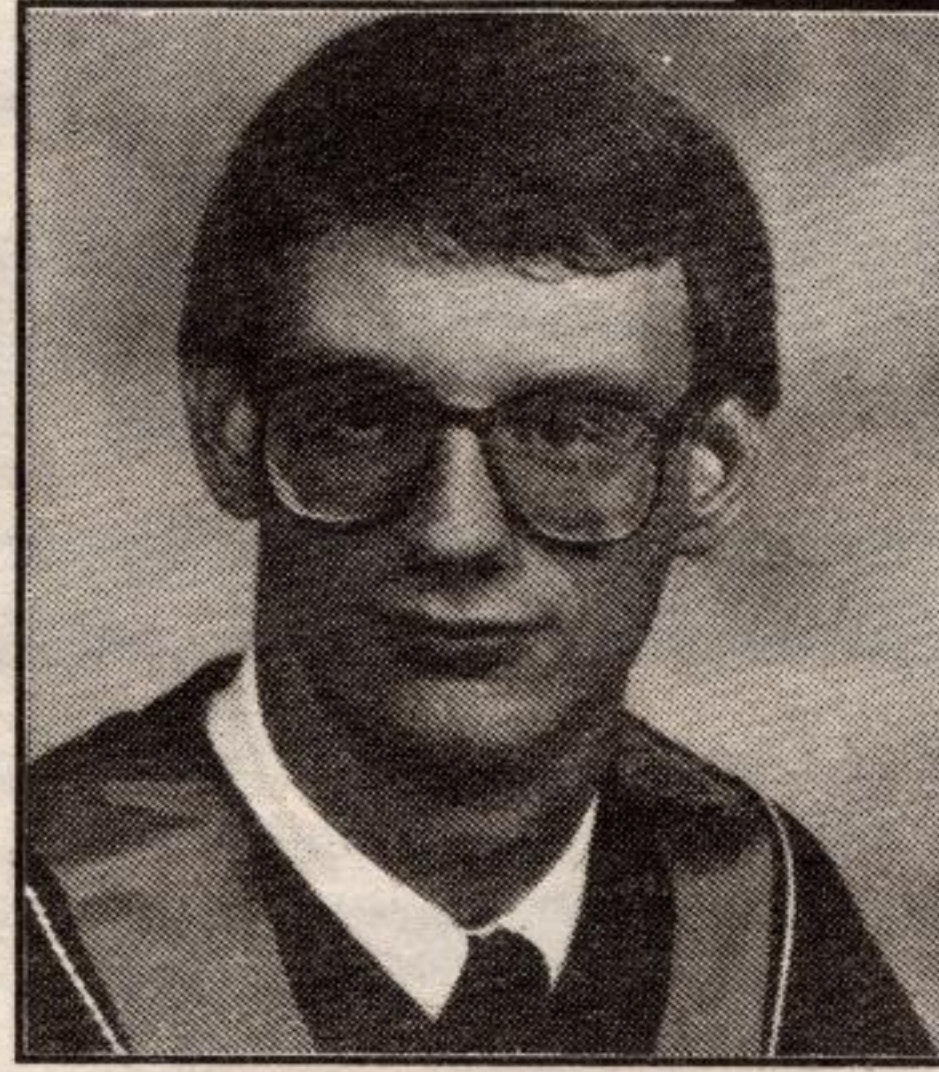

Sarah Austin received the Precision Restoration Halpeel Award for outstanding Grade 10, along with the Queen's Tire Award for French Immersion, and the Dr. P. Lemiski Mathematics Award.

Top Grade 11 student Ryan Telford received the Spriggs Insurance Brokers Award, the Ed's In-N-Out Award for computer studies, P.R.E. View Video Award for advanced English, MacKenzie and Chapman Award for advanced Biology, Halton Hills Veterinary Clinic Award for advanced Chemistry, and the Acton Agricultural Society Award for advanced Geography.

A total of 67 students from Grades 9 to 12 received school pins for obtaining an 80 per cent average or more throughout the past school year.

Achievement Awards were presented by Precision Restoration Halpeel to two students, April Warford and Jennifer Douglas, who had made significant improvements over the past year.

"These students have made the biggest changes in their lives. I got the warmest feeling inside of me when they were walking across the stage," said Tamblyn after the ceremony.
