

EVER TASTED BEEF TONGUE?

Acton High math teacher Brian Downes agreed to kiss a cow on Friday to help students fund the school's recent Moga Madness Day. Downes was the students' No. 1 choice to perform the honour — and he apparently won top marks from the Holstein too! (Doug Harrison photo)

Fatal accident west of Acton

A man and woman were killed Sunday morning, just after midnight, after a southbound pick-up slammed into a westbound Camaro on the First Line and Sideroad 15 in Moffat. The deadly crash occurred at 12:15 am, June 5.

Michael Mains and Darlene Lamb, occupants of the Camaro, were killed in the accident and the 17-year-old driver of the truck is being treated for a broken leg and collar bone.

The investigation is continuing by Regional Traffic Unit. Alcohol does not seem to have been a factor in the collision.

A 1993 Ford van stolen from Mill Street last Wednesday was recovered two hours later. The OPP stopped the vehicle at 7 pm in Shelburne and arrested a 28-year-old Brampton man for impaired driving and possession of stolen goods.

Police say the van was unlocked and the keys were "available" when it was stolen earlier that evening.

What's in a name?

It's official. Acton Social Services and Information Centre is becoming Acton Support Services and Information Centre. They still will be known as ASSIC.

In a recent release, ASSIC explained the change: "We have, in the past, been confused with Halton Social Services, which provides social assistance to financially limited individuals. We have never provided this type of help.

"We do, however, offer support services. Therefore, it seemed quite appropriate to be known as a support service instead."

ASSIC still provides many services to Actonites including Meals on Wheels, a transportation program and general support to those having difficulties and troubles.
