Playing .500 will be tough for AHS Lady cagers

BY DOUG HARRISON
 The Acton Tanner

They may not possess that one shoot-the-lights-out player, but the Acton Redmen Junior Girls' basketball team's shooting skills are the best of any Acton High team their coach has seen.

Quite heady praise from returning coach Lyn McLaren who will carry seven rookies on a 12-man roster and who figures his team will be in tough to play .500 ball.

"I'm very impressed with the Grade 9s. I don't have an exceptional athlete like (former Junior stars) Susan Craig and Jenny Goy, but they have good skills and speed," beams McLaren.

The Redmen, though, are lacking height and will rely on a pressure defence, hustle and five-player substitutions when they open the 1994 season in two weeks at home to Bishop Reding.

"Hopefully we'll be competitive, but that's a lot to ask with so many new kids," McLaren reasons, adding the team will be well-disciplined and highly competitive in two or three years.

So far in camp, five McKenzie-Smith graduates have caught his eye with their strong work-ethic and exceptional skills. "There must be something happening over there," he says, referring to the middle school's grooming of potential high school athletes.

McLaren says Eleni Halis and returning Junior Denise Katsilieris will be the team's field generals, while Courtney Norman and Julianna Scappin, who has impressed with her ball-handling, will be slotted at the guard positions.

Two other first-year players, Stephanie Adams and Kelly Holmes, will work the inside.

"We're going to have to go with a fast break most of the time, since we won't use a set offence more than 20 per cent each game," McLaren allows. "We've got speed but not height, so we'll lose 10 to 12 points a game caused from fouls to contest against our shortness."

This season will see the Redmen's travel schedule diminish as they move to the Volpe Division, joining such teams as E.C. Drury, Milton, Bishop Reding, among other schools.

McLaren went on to say the Redmen will be up-court all the time, meaning they will floor a defence that will feature double coverage and trapping.

"Talent-wise we're strong. How we'll do against other schools I can't make any promises," McLaren says. "I would like to be competitive."
