

HAPPY 80TH, BERNICE!

Miller quoted in election campaign

One of the candidates in the race for a seat on Eramosa Township Council is using a Rockwood Miller story to take on his opponents.

Deputy-Reeve hopeful Rick Hughes, an incumbent one-term Councillor, is circulating a campaign leaflet throughout the Township that features a story by Rockwood Miller reporter Frances Niblock.

In the Oct. 19 edition of The Miller, Niblock quoted incumbent Reeve Leverne Harris as saying that there was no race in Eramosa and that it was a foregone conclusion that incumbent Deputy-Reeve Ken Mercer would win re-election, not Hughes.

Above a reprint of the Miller story, Hughes's flyer reads: "Some people think it is in the bag," and below the story the flyer urges voters to: "Tell them to think twice."

In an interview on Sunday, Hughes said he used the Rockwood Miller story because "it's a window that sheds some light on some of the obstacles that myself, along with some of the ratepayers in the Township, have seen in terms of proper communication with the community and with some of the members of Council."

Spill was no 'fat joke'

A Malton food processing company was charged with hauling an insecure load Thursday after an employee dumped 17 crates of animal fat on County Road 44.

Wasaga Beach resident William Ellis, 40, was hauling 24 crates of animal fat when he slammed on the brakes as two dogs veered onto the road just south of Hwy. 7. Operating a 1994 International tractor pulling a Durabody trailer, Ellis missed the dogs.

However, as he began to accelerate up a steep grade, some of the load — which weighed in excess of 35,000 pounds — began to shift and eventually busted open the truck's two back wooden doors.

The fat, which is biodegradable, was cleaned up by the Eramosa Fire Department.
