

ANDY'S KIDS! Acton restaurateur Andy Katsilieris, far right, joined 20 McKenzie-Smith middle school students last Monday who won prizes for their participation in the school's Pizza Day fundraiser this year. Katsilieris had supplied the Acton Boulevard school with pizzas the first Wednesday of each month since September. (Doug Harrison photo)

Staff parties hit by slow economy

The Hide House will also hold a pot luck lunch a week before Christmas.

However, Edna Perkons and the staff of five at the Bank of Mon-triel will be part of a huge District Christmas dinner and dance this weekend at the North-Halton Country Inn that will include personnel from Georgetown and Milton.

The Acton branch will also go to dinner at an Acton restaurant and exchange gifts before Santa arrives.

Unlike these four businesses, Andy Katsilieris will soon hold his 17th Christmas dinner for 18 current employees and two summer workers in his own establishment — Andy's Restaurant.

"With the poor economy I can't afford to give them (employees) a Christmas bonus, so I throw them a party in appreciation of their work," Katsilieris explains.

He adds everyone socializes, is happy and gets into the festive mood.

"Sometimes even customers come in for fun, because they know when the party is."

As he points out, "the more the merrier at Christmas-time."

Police look for green Chevelle

Police are looking for a green Chevrolet Chevelle after the car came close to striking a downtown Acton pedestrian on Sunday morning.

The two-door car was observed in the Acton IGA parking lot before it turned right onto Main Street and squealed its tires while attempting to speed away. According to police, the driver lost control of the car and mounted the curb at Main and Mill streets, where it nearly struck a person on the sidewalk.

The car then sped off eastbound on Mill Street.

Police are investigating the incident. Anyone with information about the car is asked to call Halton Police at 878-5511.

Vandals target AHS cars

Police are investigating a rash of vehicle vandalism at the Acton High School parking lot on Cedar Road.

According to Halton Regional Police detective sergeant Ron Welsh, car tires have been slashed, likely with a knife, on a number of occasions in the month of November.

The most recent case saw a 1984 Chevrolet's tires slashed, causing some $500 damage.

Egg throwers on Danville

Police report that vandals threw a number of raw eggs against the side of a residential garage on Danville Avenue last week.

The vandalism occurred sometime between 8 and 11 pm on Thursday night. No further damage was reported.

Wrecking yard fire

A reported car fire was put out by the time Acton fire fighters arrived at a Fourth Line auto wrecking yard last Tuesday at noon hour.

According to the fire department, the blaze began after sparks from a welding torch ignited some fluid that was on the ground.
