THE WRATH OF GRAPES
 WITH DON CHERRY

Who pays? The fan!

Yes, sir, I'm afraid the special feeling for hockey is gone forever. Fans sort of had the idea that hockey was different from baseball, football and basketball. But no more — not after the lockout.

People used to think that hockey players loved the game and that the pay was just gravy ... that they would play for nothing. In the old days we almost did play for nothing. But all of this has changed now.

It's sad, too, because this was hockey's year to shine, with a new Fox TV contract, a great finals last season, New York winning the Cup, baseball on strike. It was our year and now it's pretty much lost, up in a puff of smoke. And who pays in the end? The guy who pays the freight — the fan!

Next week I'll close off my segment on the NHL lockout by telling you about the players who were especially hurt — guys like Dino Ciccerelli, Craig McTavish and Derek King.

Until then ... how about that Wendel Clark?!
