

Supplements to Old Age Security

Special to The Tanner PLUS!

Seniors who receive a supplement to Old Age Security will have received a form entitled "Application for Renewal of Guaranteed Income Supplement or Spouses Allowance 1995/96."

• Complete this application by March 31: If it is not received in time for processing, your April cheque will be cut back to the basic old age security amount of $387.74. The amount will be re-adjusted when the application is received and any retroactive payments will be made, but for seniors receiving supplements, to have their cheque cut would be a hardship.

• Wait for necessary papers: You must have the stubs from your February cheque of the Canada pension plan or other pension, and the bank statement of how much interest you have received. All this has to be declared, so please wait until you have this information telling you exactly what you received in 1994.

The same amounts must be used in your income tax return, so keep the stubs together in a safe place. If your supplement form figures differ from those on your income tax return, it will be noticed by income security and will result in an adjustment to your cheque later on.

• What to include: When filling out the application, do not declare your old age supplements or spouses allowance received. You need only declare your private income, which includes Canada Pension, work pension, insurance and bank interest etc.

If you have questions or difficulties completing this application, call income security toll-free at 1-800-265-9480 (from 519 area code). These phone lines are often busy, so be patient and call at 8 am, when the office first opens.

If you have questions, staff here at ASSIC can help. Drop in to 19 Willow St. N. or call 853-3310 from Monday to Friday, 8:30 am to 4:30 pm.

Cure for boredom

"I'm bored. What can I do?" Sound familiar?

To answer this age-old question, the Halton Hills Rec and Parks Department has compiled a flyer outlining all the exciting activities offered by community organizations over the March Break.

Your children should have brought home a flyer from school, but if you did not receive a March Break Flyer, call 873-2600, ext. 275 today!
