SampleFest a terrific way to spend Canada Day

Welcome to the June edition of PLUS!, the monthly consumer newspaper that gives you all the best in deals and wheels.

Saturday is Canada Day, of course, and I hope you've planned a special celebration to demonstrate your national pride. There are thousands of great reasons to be proud — and thankful — that you are Canadian, of course, and we have just one day each year to show our spirit. Wave that flag!

There's a new event planned for downtown Acton this Canada Day, and it sounds like a fantastic idea. It's called Sample Fest and for just $6 ($10 for a couple), you can take part in an historical walking tour through downtown with "sampling" stops at five local restaurants along the way.

Tour guides Jessie Coles, Doug and Janis Fread and Mac Sprowl will point out lots of interesting historical trivia on your tour through Tim-Bri Tea House, the Red Dog Cafe, the Big Scoop, Andy's and The Towne Friar.

Each restaurant along the route promises some scrumptious food samples to keep up your energy level, and BIA organizers promise that all you'll need to bring is "your walking shoes, a healthy appetite and a sense of fun!"

Sample Fest tickets were selling rather slowly at press time, with 60 spots left. So get out to one of the restaurants in the next day or two and get your ticket.

It's a terrific way to spend Canada Day afternoon!
